The hop at the National Hotel Friday evening was a very pleasant affair. All who attended enjoyed it hugely. The Superintendent of the hotel, Mr. Parten, is a courteous gentleman and makes it pleasant at all times.

The active and honorary members of the Typographical Union, will meet at the Mayor's Office to-morrow evening to perfect arrangements for the regular Annual pic-nic and excursion on the 4th of July. They propose to render this a more brilliant affair than on any previous occasion.

HIGH WATERS .- Our Morganton correspondent, under date of 8th of regular order to the Oakwood Cemetery. May, says "that all the streams in Western North Carolinn are reported far out beyond their banks. The Catawba at Morganton was twenty one feet above common water and still rising. At 81 o'clock on Thursday morning, the bridge, over the Catawba, two miles from Morganton, was swept away. West of Morganton the damage to the Western Railroad is very severe, and it will probably be two weeks before the trains can run over the road. I have heard nothing from the road east of here.

There is no doubt an immense amount of damage to the bottom lands which have recently been plowed up, and much tencing will be washed away and many mill dams destroyed.

A DESTRUCTIVE TORNADO. -- On Thursday evening a tornado passed over the belt of country between Henderson and Ridgway, on the line of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, doing considerable damage to trees generally. Upon both sides of the road, for a distance of some three miles, we noticed the effects of the wind, the largest trees flowers-the first born of May-should being wholly uprooted, and in one field grace their sacred ashes, but that the we saw hundreds of truit trees level with tale of their glory should employ the the ground. HALIFAX SUPERIOR COURT-THE PEOPLE OF HALIFAX COUNTY-THE fown of Halifax .-- Halifax Court opened on Monday last, Judge Watts presiding. His Honor's charge to the Grand Jury, undoubtledly "the best he had in his shop," partook muchly of a sermon, and served to draw "copious tears" from a number of his sable hearers. It was intended to reach the understanding of the blacks upon the jury, except so much thereof as formed his religio phrenological disquisition on medical jurisprudence. Altogether, Judge Watts, as a chargist, is a thorough have sorrowed too. The poet-orator of Hungary has said, in his pathetic dream successist. The dockets of Halifax Court are always crowded, but the State Docket this term is unusually so, there being upon it some one hundred and twenty cases, two of which are for capital offences. Besides the Halifax Bar in attendance, we noticed from Raleigh Messrs. Edwards, Moore, Batchelor, Devereux, Busbee and Solicitor Cox; Gen. Ransom, rom Northampton; T. B. Venable, Esq., from Granville, and others from adjoining counties. We found the people of different sections of the county excited almost to madness over the proposed county appropriation of one hundred thousand lollars to the Halifax and Scotland Neck Railroad. The teeling had on Tuesday waxed to white heat, when a discussion was engaged in by advocates upon the different sides which only served to more thoroughly convince the parties that they were right and that every one who thought different was wrong. Fortunately, for the general good of the county, the personal feeling which had been engendered has been to a great extent allayed, and now the question will be fought entirely upon its merits. The contest will be close, but we are confident, if a majority of the votes are cast for the appropriation, it will be adopted—if not, there is a strong probability of the measure being defeated. The attendance upon the Court was quite large, and we were gratified to find the farming public generally in good spirits. THE DAILY NEWS .- We do not often reproduce compliments to the DAILY News from our cotemporaries, but we must be pardoned for sometimes doing so. We take the following handsome compliment from the State Agricultural Journal of yesterday:

THE DAILY NEWS

"Bretheren of the quill have a spirit of kindly feeling for each other, that often prompts a tribute of respect from the warmth of the heart, more than the conviction of the judgment.

"But we are persuaded that the pub-lic will cordially unite with us, in the recognition of the merits of this ornament to the press of North Carolina. "Edited with singular modesty, and with absolute adherence to all the

the courtesies of style, its works are nevertheless pointed, and fearless, declarations clearand its sighted and just. Seldom borne on the torrent of excitement, and unmoved by the voice of clamor at its side, the NEWS hastens to lay the tacts of daily life before the public, but is temperate as well as decided in its comments. The harmony of its editorials is remarkable, and deserves especial mention. While many others give us a daily pot-pourri, with widely conflicting views upon social, political and literary topics, our honored neighbor is always consistent.

"We have repeatedly noticed the clearness of apprehension that discerned the true relations of events occurring in distant quarters, and have noted the confirmation thereof, by reference to the papers of the locality published subse-

"This is the art of the journalist-to see and interpret the raison d'etre in everything, and we feel assured that the NEWS possesses it. "Nor is it wanting in energy and promptness. Witness the article on the life and services of Chief Justice Chase a few days since, published in the very issue that contained the telegram an nouncing his death. Note, too, the pains which it is ever taking to render the large sections of our State, that are still comparatively unknown, more familiar to the public at large, thus cultivating the feeling of State pride, and inviting the stranger abroad to consider the wealth of our natural resources, the character of our people, and the grand opportunities awaiting those who will cast their future with North Carolina.

"The political editor of the NEWS. as many of our readers are aware, is Capt. Samuel T. Williams, of Nash county. He was the Conservative candidate for Congress in the Metropolitan district in the political campaign of Johnston, Seaman; William Jackson, our admiration of his pure and modest, but terse and dignified style. Jordan Stone, Esq., who does the hard work of the managing editor, that only newspaper men can fully appreciate, came to the News with the honors of his successful work on the Roanoke News, at Weldon. Mr. John Syme, one of the local editors, is an old newspaper man and faithful worker.

" As for Captain E. C. Woodson, the famous "Lokkle," as some sacrilegious wretch termed him, like Olive Logan who kept our friends of the law in reserve the other night, to deal her blows at them, we keep Woodson for the last, to consider his ways and be cheerful. If there is a fair, a lecture, a meeting, social, political, commercial, and we might say convivial, he is there; if there is or is not anything he knows it, and is just from there, or then on the way; if anybody gets married, or if anybody else is hanged-if Louisburg swaps horses or Nash fights chickens-stop, he might think us enthusiastic, and we close by simply saying that Local as applied to him is a misnomer altogether, and we suggest Universal.

"Leaving jest aside, we cannot recommend to our readers abroad, who ought to have a paper from the Capital of the State, a more able and high toned Journal, and we believe that it has in store a brilliant future."

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS .- John Nichols, Esq., Principal of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum, is grading the ground, macadamizing the walks, and otherwise, improving the grounds of the Institution in the rear of the main buildings. The grounds on the west side are to be terraced, and when completed will be an ornament to that locality. Smith, "the great North American house movist," is engaged in moving back the old shoe shop which will hereafter serve for wood and fuel house.

GOING IT BLIND .- We were struck yesterday with the kindness and father ly attention shown a blind beggar man by two stout, able bodied colored indiuiduals-with great care and affection they helped the beggar cross the street, through the mud from the Court House to the Yarbrough House. On the platform they left him, and we in silence admired their attention and thought their mission ended. But not so, after soliciting and receiving aid from the cents of the house, they again took him in hand, and on the next corner divided spoils. A profitable business that.

Washington, D. C. The English sailing ship Walrus has just arrived and reports that the steam er Tigress picked up on the ice at Grady Harbor, Laurador, on the 30th of April ast, fifteen of the crew and five Esquimaux of the steamer Polaris of the Arctic expedition. Capt. Hall died last Summer. The Tigress is hourly expected at St. John's.

Signed, F. N. Mallony, U. S. Consul. NEW YORK, May 10th .- A special lispatch from St. Johns, New Foundland, dated 9th, says, "The steamer Walrus arrived from the seal fishery at St. John's this morning, bringing the news that the steamer Tigress had come into Bay Roberts, 18 miles from here, having on board nineteen survivors of Hall's Arctic Expedition." The correspondent immediately started to Bay Roberts to learn full particulars. The Tigress was at anchor, and the rescued men were assembled on the deck. They furnished the following deeply thrilling narrative of the adventures of the expedition, the death of Capt. Hall and the final escape of the survivors, who were taken off from the iceberg by the Tigress on the 30th April last in latitude 53 deg. 30 min., after having spent 196 days on the floe. The following are the names of the rescued. H. C. Tyson, Assistant Navigator; Fred R. Meger. Metrologist; John Herron, Steward; W. C. Kniger, Seaman; Wm. Ninde-

Gustavus T. Linquist, Seaman; Peter Cook; Esquimaux Joe, Interpetrer; Hannah and child, Esquimaux; Hanes Christian, of Kane's expedition; Hanes Chuslians, wife and four children, the youngest only eight months old. This party which had been landed from Polaris were driven from her by a gale, which burst her moorings on 15th of October, 1872, in latitude 72 deg. 35 min. When they last saw Polaris she was under steam and canvas making for the harbor on the east side of Northumberland Island. She had no boats left out of six which she brought from New York. Two was lost in the Northern expedition. Two were landed on the ice with Capt. Tyson's party. One was burnt as firewood to make water for the crew and the other is on board the Tigress. The Polaris was in command of Capt. Buddington, who had 13 of the crew along with him and a plentiful stock of provisions. She was makking a good deal of water, but as Capt. Tyson informed the correspondent, she was not more leaky than when he was on board all the previous fall and winter. The Polaris was somewhat damaged and it is the opinion of the survivors that they will be unable to get clear until July, and even then if the ship is unseaworthy they should have to make new boats to affect an escape. On the 8th of October 1871, in latitude 1:38 and longitude 61:44 Captain Hall died of appoplexy, and was buried on shore where they erected a wood cross to mark his grave. He had recently returned from the Northern sledge expedition in which he had attained a latitude of 31°. 16m. He seemed in his usual health and had called the crew into the cabin to encourage them with hopes of future rewards and stimulate them to renewed exertions, when he was suddenly struck down and expired, to the grief of those around to whom he had endeared himself by his kindness and devotion. We succeeded in killing a few seals, which furnished us with light and fuel with which to warm our scanty allowance of food through the darkness of an Arctic winter. In the darkness of an Arctic winter. In the latter part of February we lived principally on birds, and in March we commenced to catch seals. Through that month we supported ourselves on bears and seals flesh, wasting neither skin nor entrails. We collected enough food in this way to last us until the middle of May, had we not been driven to sea by a strong westerly gale. to sea by a strong westerly gale. In the latter part of March, our "floe-piece" being then reduced from five miles in circumference to about twenty yards in diameter, we left the "piece" on the first of April and abandoned nearly all our meat, a large amount of our ammunition, clothing, skins and other articles, taking a portion of the meat in the boat, which we were obliged to throw overboard on account of boat's being so deeply ladened.

I remained on the outer-edge pack of the ice on 3rd April, and succeeded in getting a little farther in on packs.—

On the fourth a heavy northeast gale et in, and heavy sea running under ice, which broke it in small pieces, so we had to leave on small pans, as we could not put boats out; neither could we find seals, for food, and we were reduced almost to starvation. On 21st April we sighted a Polar Bear, Every person was ordered to lie down and imitate the seal, while two Esquimanx secreted themselves behind a fence, thus getting the bear near enough to us to kill him A few days after we got our boat in the water, and worked our way west and southwest, and continued to work at every opportunity to westward in hopes of reaching the Labrador coast, and getting temporary relief. We were picked up on the steamship Tigress on the 30th April, in latitude 58 deg. 85 min; north longitude 55 west. On near Wolf Island and a boat forty miles from land. The Polaris is now without boats, having Polaris is now without boats, having lost the tug in trying to get north in the Spring of 1872. The citizens fell in a party in a dense fcg and providentially struck the very floe on which they were, otherwise they must have perished. They all seem tolerably well. Capt. Tyson complained of awelled legs but nothing was serious the matter with him. When they left the Polaris all on board were in good health. In reference to the way in which the Polaris erence to the way in which the Polaris got away from the party, which was rescued from off the iceberg, Capt.
Tyson states that he tell a little anxiety at first, thinking she would come to their relief. I set my colors, he said, she stood down alon but the vessel was soon lost sight in the bend of land, and being what I took to be Northumberland Island. The piece was on commenced drifting southward. As I hauled to northeast opening a little bay to northeast of Northumberland, I saw the vessel in the harbor there. Her sails were furled. No smoke was issued from her smokestack that I could see, and then I attempted to bring my boats across the floe in an easterly direction, hoping to find water and reach shore. I succeeded in lragging one boat across, took water and attempted to reach shore some distance below the vessel. We were then drifting very fast and the gale was blowing fresh with great violence from the northeast and snowing very fast and drifting. I was driven back on the ice again and compelled to pull my boat out. Night closed on me and I was carried up to the southwest. In the morning we were about thirty miles southwest of where the ship went in the harbor, A heavy sea was running which broke up my floe piece, separating us from six bags of bread and the boat. I saw the vessel under steam and canvass rounding a point to the northwest. Thinking she would come to our relief, I gave myself no anxiety, but we were soon doomed to disappointment, and from then till the Tigress rescued us we never got a glimpse of the Polaris. by some of our State exchanges. We have no reference now to the gentlemen who have been appointed honorary commissioners to Vienna by Gov. Caldwell.

We have no reference to individual citizens of our State who may attend the grand exposition from motives of curiosity or for their own pleasure and instruction.

But we ask, shall the State of North Carolina be represented at Vienna? By the State we mean the State's resources -her productions, her mineral wealth, her advantages of climate and soil and her manufacturing, mechanical and agricultural interests.

It is useless to send representatives to Vienna unless they go there with the purpose of benefiting the State and our whole people.

We want Professor Kerr to go, but we want him to take with him a full supply of specimens of our resources. We want him to lay before the world the advantages which North Carolina offers to emigrants in search of comfortable homes. We want him to make an exhibition worthy of the State-of its exhaustless mineral wealth-of its magnificent mountain scenery-of its unequalled water power in the Westof its fertile soil in the East-of its salubrious climate-and of its varied productions.

If Professor Kerr, as we understand it is his purpose to do, shall represent the State creditably and truly at Vienna, we can reasonably anticipate the most advantageous results from his trip.

We understand he is preparing a large map of the State which will be engraved and sent over expressly for the exhibition, and which will show at a glance the advantages and peculiarities of every section of North Carolina.

Specimens of our resources should accompany this map, and Prof. Kerr should be at Vienna in person to give reliable and full explanations of the map and specimens to be sent, and to answer all questions that are asked concerning the State, by those whose curiosity may be excited by an inspection of the articles on exhibition.

THE HOMESTEAD, AGAIN. Delay not, delay not, the hour draws near When the sheriff will levy on all you Go at once into Bankruptoy and save your old home
From the grasp of your debtors for all time to come.

- Concord Sun. The above may be good poetry, but it is not sound advice, according to the opinion of another of our State exchanges, as the following in regard to our Homestead law will show:

"We told the people time and again that it, (the Homestead law) was unconstitutional, and would be so declared when brought up to the Supreme Court of the United States for decision, and although we are no lawyer, we now tell them again, that the amendatory bankrupt Act, allowing to bankrupts the State homesteads on old debts is unconstitutional, and will be so declared when tested, and we ask their attention to the following weighty words taken from the decision in proof of our opin-

'Congress cannot, by authorization of ratification, give the slightest effect to a State law or Constitution in conflict with the Constitution of the United States. That instrument is above and beyond the power of Congress and the States, and is alike obligatory upon both.

The amendatory bankrupt Act is in direct conflict with this decision, and was passed on purpose to give authorization to State laws in conflict with the Constitution of the United States, and it is a waste of money to go into bankruptcy with the belief that the bankrupt will get the benefit of the State Homestead on old debts."- Winston Sentinel

On yesterday, we raised the question as to whether or not the Homestead exemptions allowed by article tenth of our State Constitution could be legally set aside by the assignee of the bankrupt, against debts contracted before the adoption of the Constitution?

The best opinion among our lawyers seems to be that these exemptions will be allowed against all debts in the Bankrupt Court, on the ground that the Constitution of the State from passing a law impairing the obligation of contracts, does not prohibit Congress under the power to pass a bankrupt Act, from allowing exemptions against prior debts.

The point is a mooted one, and will present an important question of law. How the Supreme Court of the United States will decide in the premises we think is a matter of some doubt, and therefore we cannot recommend bankruptcy as a certain and final relief for debts contracted before the 3rd day of July, 1868 -the day the present State Government went into effect.

HALL'S ARCTIC EXPEDITION. Read the thrilling narrative by the survivors of Capt. Hall's Artic expedition, published in full, in our dispatches North Carolina does not allow the inithis morning.

The statements of the sufferings of the crew, of the death of Capt. Hall and the loss of the Polaris are given in detail and will be read with interest by the public. Later dispatches throw a unconstitutional by the Supreme Court doubt upon the accounts concerning the of the United States. The Robesonian loss of the Polaris but confirm the re- adds: port of Hall's death.

ANOTHER MODOC VICTORY. Our dispatches to-day report another Modoc vietory.

Capt. Jack has recently captured a supply of quartermaster's stores, including wagons, mules, horses, &c., and wounded three of the United States troops.

It is stated that the Modocs have lett the lava beds. We doubt it.

SLEEP-ITS IMPORTANCE.

We call attention to an article in another column from the pen of Dr. Charles F. Deems, Pastor of the Church of the Strangers, on the subject of sleep.

It is evident that Dr. Deems has given | blesome." the subject careful thought, and his suggestions deserve the serious consideration of our readers.

He thinks every person ought to sleep at least eight hours out of twenty-four, C., on June 10th, 1869, in which occurs and the warnings pointed out to those who keep late hours and rise early for the next day's work, are solemn and should be heeded.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS. OFFER in regard to defraying Professor at Magnolia Cemetery. The Magnolia Kerr's expenses to Vienna:

"We see it stated that the amount ecessary to defray the expenses of Professor Kerr, as Commissioner from North Carolina, to the Vienna Exposiion, will be about six hundred dollars, We offer to be one of twenty who will advance thirty dollars each, for the payment of his expenses, the money to be forwarded to Raleigh as soon as it can be ascertained that the amount is raised. We certainly think that there can be no doubt of the amount being made in this way. We regard Professor Kerr's visit as one of the greatest importance to our State. If he should induce only half dozen emigrants of the right class, to make their homes in our midst, it would more than pay for the amount of his expenses. We have in North Carolina a wealth in mineral deposits that needs only to be developed to make her in this | lina press. respect second to none in the Union .-We have as tertile lands as there can be found anywhere adapted to the culture of the Cereals, Tobacco, and the great staple, Cotton. Our eastern country furnishes naval stores to the world, and the west now being tapped by railroads, offers to stock-raisers, advantages not to be had this side of the Mississippi, and water power sufficient to run all the spindles in the United States, and the only measure now necessary to make North Carolina what she ought to be, s the right class of emigrants.

We endorse the following from the State Agricuctural Journal on "North Carolina at the Great Exhibition:"

There is no provision to have our State represented at the Vienna Exposition this Summer by a scientific man, and yet, we have reason to hope we will be represented, by our worthy State Geologist, and, "as it is never too late to do good," the Legislature when it mee's should make an appropriation to pay all Prof. Kerr's expenses to and from Vienna. This would be but an act of instice. We are more favored by Geographical situation and natural resources than any people on the globe, and we want the world, especially Europe, to know this, that they may appreciate our section and send their capital and enterprise to develop our wealth. Ours is a great State, but we make a mistake in keeping our riches to ourselves. We are too modest. We know our resources and content ourselves with the knowedge only. We do not keep pace with the progress of the age. This course has been pursued long enough to convice us it is neither wise, practical, or profita-ble, and we hope by the intelligent people of the State, in the future, it will be abandoned. Let the world know the mineral and productive resources of the old North State. Let us send to Vienna specimens of the rich ores within and samples of the crops grown upon our soil. We want intelligent population, enterprise and capital in every section of the State.

On the subject of Sunday Schools. the North Carolina Christian Advocate thus concludes an eloquent argument :

It is said the drums of England beat round the world. On the British empire the sun never sets, and the camp-fires of the British army girdle the world with a belt of light. Witness her influence in the affairs of nations! When England speaks the nations listen. When the lion roars the earth trembles! Influence! Power!

We imagine that kindred to this would be the effect of a Sunday school empire in the moral world-beginning United States, while it prohibits a at Wales and unturling its banners upon every hill top, until, like the drum-beat of England, its bells would ring round the world. Then would crime disappear, and fidelity take its flight into the region of shame. The criminal dockets of the courts would be clear. The camp-fires of the Sunday school army would encircle the earth with a blaze of moral light, and as the song of the hosts died away upon the still evening air would we hear the echo from a thousand hills, "On earth peace! Good will toward men."

On the subject of "Temperance Among the Colored People" the Spirit of the Age rejoices to learn of the movement among colored men to organize lodges of Good Templars, but says they must be kept separate from the Good Templar lodges organized by the whites The Grand Lodge of I. O. G. T. in tiation of a colored person into any

State Fair Premium at Wilmington for the Largest Amount of Cotton to an Acre-

GOLDSBORO, Wayne County, N. C., November 23rd, 1872.

JOHN H. POWELL, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—The Soluble Sea Island Guano purchased of you this season was used by the side of three others, and has given me more satisfaction than any of the others. The Soluble Sea Island Guano was the one used upon the acre of land upon which my son raised the cotton upon which he took his State premium for the greatest amount of cotton te an acre; and I am informed by the Chairman of the Committee that had he entered for the largest amount of cotton to the acre, premiums open to all ages, he would have also taken that premium, beating all 150 lbs. I am better pleased with it than any other Guano I have ever used on cotton, and I shall use it in preference to others next season for my cotton crop.

Messrs. R. W. L. RAISIN & Co., Baltimore:
I bought of Messrs. Branch, Herbeit & Co., last Spring, one ton of your Soluble Sea Island Guano for myself and three tons for other parties, and I find them all well pleased with it, and say it is the best Guano, and paid them better than any they ever used. The ton I used myself was put in cotton by the side of two other guanos, and I am willing to say that I should buy the Soluble Sea Island Guano in preference to any that I have used since the war.

Very respectfully,

To 8. J. PARHAM:

The Soluble Sea Island Guano purchased of you was used on tobacco and cotton by me by the side of Peruvian Guano, Stonewall & * * * *. I like it much better than either, and I observed a marked difference in favor of the Sea Island. Shall use in the HENDERSON, Granvitle county.

HENRY BURRELL, Esq., has stated to us that he made a test this present year's tobacco crop, using two other higher-priced guanos, but 's convinced that the Soluble Sea Island Guano is the cheapest guano he has ever purchased, and shall use it again.

YANCEYVILLE, Caswell County, N. C. December 6th, 1872.

Captain W. P. ROBINSON,

DEAR SIR—In reply to your inquiry as to how I liked the Sea Island Guano I got of you, I wish to say that I applied it, 200 pounds to the acre, alongside of Peruvian, Pacific Guano and Gilham's Tobacco Fertilizer in equal quantities; it stands the drouth better than either of the above fertilizers. It matured better on the hill and cured better and more yellow than either of the other fertilizers used. I think it is a splendid fertilizer and I expect to use it next season.

HOW DOES HE SLEEP ?

BY CHARLES F. DEEMS, D. D., (Pastor of The Church of the Strangers, New York.)

A man who achieves any great thing in any department of human effort must have assistants in the shape of employees, lieutenants, deputies, marshals—what-ever you may choose to call them. He has brain enough to furnish direction to the energy of many men. His success or failure will be due in a large measure to the judiciousness of his selection. He must know his men. They must be capable. They must be faithful. They

t have no bad habits. This last brings me to what I wish to one of the most important things to know about any man upon whom you are going to place any dependence is, How he sleeps? Steeplessness may sometimes be involuntary. There may have been some shock to the man's nerves which has made him insomnolent; but sleeplessness is more frequently voluntary. Men choose to push their studies or their work into those hours when they should be sleep. It does not matter for what cause any man may do this; the mere fact of sleeping spoils his case. He may study, or in the "protracted meeting."

It will make no difference; the result to the body will be the same. The sleep was not had, and for that the man must One man may do with a little less p than another; but, as a general rule, if you want a clerk, a lieuteuant, a lawyer, a physician, a legislator, a judge, a president, or a pastor, do not trust your interests to any man that does not take on the average eight good, solid hours of sleep out of every twenty-four. Whatever may be his reason for it, if he does not give himself that, he will snap

The intellectual and moral connections of sleeping have, I think, not been sufficiently appreciated. Men and boys have been praised for "burning the midnight oil." Now, this "midnight oil" is a delusion and a snare. The student who is fast asleep at eleven o'clock every night and is wide awake at seven o'clock every morning is going to surpass another student of the same intellectual ability who goes to bed after twelve and rises before five. In sleep the plate on which the picture is taken is receiving its chemical preparation, and it is plain that that which is the best prepared will take the premium.

sometime just when you want him to be

Men who are the fastest asleep when they are asleep are the widest awake when they are awake.

Great workers must be great resters. Every man who has clerks in his employ ought to know what their sleeping habits are. The young men who is up till two, three, and four o'clock in the morning, and must put in his appearo'clock, and work all day, cannot repeat | CARRIAGES! this process many days without a certain shakiness coming into his system, which he will endeavor to steady by way that many a young man begins his course to ruin. He need not necessarily some delusive stimulus. It is in this On Wilmington Street, opposite Exchange Place, Saturday, May 17th, 1873, at 10 o'clock, A. M., have been in bad company. He has lost his sleep; and losing sleep is losing strength and grace. Here is the outline of the history of a suicide within my own knowledge: A young man-a stranger in New Yorkin a good situation-in a large boarding house-pleasant young companions pends evenings out-goes to midnight parties, from eleven to seven—his erves disturbed—a little drink—a little mistake in business-another drinkreproof from employer-more drinkmore mistakes—loss of situation—no help from frivolous companions-money all gone—then credit all gone—then turned out of boarding-house-wandering in the street-mortification-desation—shoots himself.

Now, it does not always come to this; but all people who are losing sleep are somewhere along this line. They are somewhere in the rapids.

We must begin a reform in this de-partment. "People who call and profees themselves Christians" must refuse to go out in the evening to any amusement, to any eatertainment, to any religious exercises, from which they cannot return at ten o'clock, to be in their beds at elever. The absurd and ruinous custom of guests arriving at nine and ten o'clock and supper being served be-tween eleven and twelve must be opposed. Well-to-do officers and members of the several churches must be made by their pastors to feel that if they give such entertainments they are responsible in a measure far the deleterious results that are to come to the bodies, to the intellects, and to the souls of their guests, young and old. Employees in every department must be made to understand that intelligent men are not going to entrust important matters to the hands of other men who do not sleep. How dare any merchant consider himself a Christian who works his clerks all night and then holds them responsible for the bodily, mental, and moral injury they bave sustained, and which reacts upon his interests? Our religious services, our business our amusements, our police regulatians must all be adjusted to this great necessity of our nature. When the city is governed as it should be, no man will be allowed to make night hideous with loud noises. Not even policemen will be permitted in the dead night, for an hour at a stretch, at the top of their voices, to bawl for the carriages of people who set the laws of health at defiance themselves and will not permit other people to obey them, a custom which is rendering property in the neighborhood of places of amusement unfit for residences. In this age of rapid trars t and accumulated work we must more and more provide for the cessity of sleep. Instean of asking our acquaintances when we meet the usual question of "How do you do ?" we might teach a good lesson by that other question, "How do you sleep?"
